Success and Age
Paul Rainey's Killing

Copyright, 1927, by Mrs. C. C. New York's District Attorney says how he can die. Courage indeed plays a part, surely. He probably can't. There must be a board to decide what is bad. It usually does not agree. There must be a grand jury willing to indict. It usually does not agree. And if you indict, you must get an ordinary jury to convict. It usually does not agree.

STEAL A DOLLAR and all agree to put you in jail. $25.00 on a $4.00 bill, with a decency and it is not quite sure that it has lost anything.

Congo natives eat decayed villosities meat, unpleasant and bad for the health, but you could not expect decayed villosities meat dealers, if there were any there.

An incident stage is a mirror reflecting a considerable part of the people mind. That is the difficulty.

LESS STRAIN in our relations with Mexico. Thirty priests are released from Mexican jails and Mexico denies that any priests have been executed. There is talk of reaching peace by the road of arbitration in Nicaragua and in Mexico. In Nicaragua, the revolution is now being arbitrated, and in Mexico the oil question—not the right of Mexico to make what laws she pleases, but their interpretation as regards American rights already acquired.

RUSH DR. WALSH, BACK FROM N. Y., TO OFFICE OF DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Dr. Thomas E. Walsh, fugitive from justice since December 16, when he fled instead of appearing in court for sentence in the Edith L. Greene case, was arrested today in New York City and brought back to Boston.

Pale and nervous, and appealing to the arresting officers not to make him any more conspicuous than necessary, he alighted from a train at the South Station at 3:30 and was taken swiftly to the district attorney's office.

Dr. Walsh was arrested in an apartment in the Bronx where he was found living with New York friends.

He faces a maximum sentence of seven years in State prison for performing illegal surgery on Edith Greene, who died after the operation last July, and whose body, cut into seven pieces, was stowed in cardboard boxes and cast by the roadside near New Calvary Cemetery.

Boston policemen, dispatched to New York by District Attorney William J. Foley, made the arrest of the South Sea fugitive and brought him here.

The fact that the authorities had secret information that Dr. Walsh was in New York was published exclusively in the Boston Evening American Thursday and reprinted in other Boston papers Friday.

Riding in the smoking car on the journey to the Hub, the convicted doctor smoked almost incessantly, stopping occasionally to chat nervously with his captors. A powerful crowd of police officers and others, said to be representatives of his bondsmen who desired his return, surrounded him as the train sped toward this city.

FUGITIVE CUGHT.
At the South Station he was led quickly out the side exit to a waiting automobile and hurried to the court house where District Attorney Foley, who is given credit by the police for engineering the arrest, took charge.

Police Sergeant James Daley of the district attorney's staff and Inspector Joseph J. Foley, who had been in the South Sea case, were with him. The South Sea doctor, whose wife, Mrs. Marian A. Walsh, has been easily denied all knowledge of all whereabouts, was convicted of this crime.

CHAPLIN, PEAK AFTER FALL, IN FIGHT OVER RECEIVERS

igned by Mrs. Chaplin last week, owing to a fortune estimated by his wife at $100,000.

Following a conference with Lloyd Wright, Chaplin's personal attorney, he announced that the receivership would be fought at every step of the way.

"Mr. Chaplin is not concerned over the world—that he is the owner of this action. He is concerned over his children, and his sole concern is for them."

"Mr. Chaplin stands ready to place in any trustworthy hands where the money will not be wasted or expended on where any reasonable sum for the maintenance of his children."

"Regardless of all attempts to try the case outside of the courts for other than judicial reasons, the actual trial must and will present the facts and the truth."

PREPARED TO FIGHT CASE.
In a joint statement, Chaplin's attorneys and the actor would file an answer to his wife's charges "in due time."

"He announced that the case would be tried on "the facts and the law" and that they would attempt to block any efforts to inject sensational testimony into the hearing."

Through her attorneys, Mrs. Chaplin today announced that she would oppose any move to have the present receivership dissolved. She also indicated she would make formal demand that her husband provide for her maintenance and the support of their two children.

Among those announced to appear at today's court hearing was Samuel Goldwyn, film producer and close friend of Chaplin, for questioning regarding his knowledge of the actor's financial condition.

Both Goldwyn and Chaplin released their pictures through United Artists.

CHAPLIN WILL BE UNDER DOCTOR'S CARE SEVERAL DAYS

New York, Jan. 17.—Overworked and nervous because of the charges of the young wife, Charlie Chaplin, seven comedians, extremely busy, is decidedly ill in his apartment here, due to loss of blood following a fall from his bed.

In a fall that had no likeness to the hundreds of "steak falls" he has taken before the camera, the film star fell from his bed, striking on his nose and bringing about a serious hemorrhage.

According to Dr. Gustav Tiesch, he was called just in time to prevent serious results from loss of blood.

A male nurse had been sitting beside the Chaplin bedside, and the comedian had been sleeping fitfully, coming from side to side, and moving in his sleep.

Suddenly he started from his sleep and before the nurse or Attorney Nathan Burkan, his counsel, could aid him, he rolled to the edge of the bed and plunged head-first into the floor.

The comedian will be confined to his bed for 10 or 12 days as a result of his collapse, physicians say.

"His temperature is 101, and he is suffering from a nervous breakdown," said his physician.

WORRY BRINGS ILLNESS.
Chaplin is denied all callers. It was explained that was again trying to meet the situation caused by the sensational charges of Mrs. Chaplin in her suit for divorce and support of their two children.

The doctor told Mrs. Chaplin that Charlie might also have to stay for two days at least.

The constant questioning about his family affairs seems to have been partly responsible for fatigue on his illness.

"HUGGER AND PEEPER" ARE SENTENCED

After the performance, back in Burkan's apartment, Chaplin began to pace the floor, keyed to a tense pitch. "Kelly and I tried to put him to bed," said Burkan. "I became worried and called a doctor. The doctor finally got him asleep and told me not to let him see anyone, not to let him budge out of the house for two days."

Kelly has announced that attorneys for United Artists will move for removal of the receivership by which Mrs. Chaplin has tied up her husband's company.

Just as soon as Chaplin can leave his sick bed, and can finish his work here, he will go back to Hollywood to fight his wife's divorce suit. It was learned from Kelly, he will seek custody of his two children.

Chaplin has contracted obligations with United Artists," said Kelly, "which will have to be fulfilled before he returns to California."

He is still confident of vindication, said Kelly. Burkan will not appear for Chaplin in western courts, Kelly added. Chaplin has turned to him merely for a consultant. He will stay at Burkan's apartment until he recovers.

11 HI-JACK SUSPECTS TO FACE NEW BEDFORD COURT

New Bedford, Jan. 17.—Eleven men, including Lawrence Miller of Boston, will be brought from Detroit, Ct., to this city to face charges of hijacking a coach of rum runners.

Charged with robbery, it is claimed that the men figured in a fight of Jan. 6, when a boatload of liquor being run into New Bedford, was seized by hi-jackers.

Five of the men are from Fall River and are: William St. Pierre, Edward Migoula, Frank Amarel, Roger Parvill and John Parson. Others are: Arthur Ryan, John Truitt, Conrad La Sance, New York; Charles Lovett and Alexander Westering.

Illegal surgery and also of conspiracy with the dead girl's sweet heart. He was to have arrested himself in court December 16 to receive sentence.

He was free, pending sentence, under bail of $10,000, provided for him by friends and relatives. When he failed to meet his attorney, John P. Fenney, in court on the day set for sentence, action was started toward recovering the bail from those who signed the bond.

Widespread search was launched for the missing doctor at the same time. Rumors flew thick, some of them having him fleeing to Europe, and most of them were given credence temporarily by the mystified police.

A "tip" that he was in New York was reported exclusively to this newspaper. First attempts to run down his case failed, but additional information on the same point resulted in the hurried dispatch of the two officers at midnight.

Dr. Walsh faces not only a maximum sentence of seven years in State Prison for the illegal surgery on the girl, but also a maximum sentence of two years in the House of Correction for conspiracy.

James V. Ford, suitor of the dead girl, will be in court for disposition of his case when Dr. Walsh is sentenced. He pleaded guilty to conspiracy.

HENRY FORD ADDS FAME TO MARY'S LITTLE LAMB

The lamb was there today when the flivver king reopened the old Sterling school that he moved to his Sudbury estate. You see him here with one of the 13 new pupils.

With a lamb and a battery of movie cameras, but with no Mary, the little red schoolhouse to which the original Mary's lamb followed her, was reopened today at South Sudbury by Henry Ford, motor magnate.

Thirteen pupils, at the sound of the original hand bell, rung by Teacher Martha Hopkins of Fairfield, Me., filed into the renovated structure on the South Ford estate to find the great flivver king folded up at a desk and he was back at school again himself.

It was the only ceremony, the attendance of the grizzled, kindly-faced man whose throbbing motors have not changed out his sentiment, and the wide-eyed youngsters, ranging in age from 4 to 21 years, stared in wonder.

NO MARY THERE

When the roll was called by the teacher, standing at the original desk behind which Mary's teacher stood, it was noted that among the thirteen pupils there was no Mary.

These were the tiny pupils who returned in South Sudbury the students that Mary and her companions of years ago left off in Sterling—Edith Labaree, Evangeline McDonald, Betty Harrington, Caroline Stone and sister Eleanor their cousin, Ivan, Ralph and Ruth Stone, Parker Bartlett, Donald Bowers, Fred Christensen, Ernest Little and Charles Whittemore. All are from Sudbury and South Sudbury.

Into the three rows of desks and benches, denied and knife scarred, the pupils filed to their assigned places, while a fire crackled comfortably in the old woodstove at the rear, its heat radiating from the long pipe.

POLICE GUARD CITY COUNCIL SESSION

With four policemen on guard to prevent outbreaks, the City Council held another meeting today to ballot, through possible storm, for a president to serve during the ongoing year.

At the last—and lively meeting, Charles G. Keene was ousted as president and was defeated when an attempt was made to recall him. Nominated immediately after his ousting, he was seated in his accustomed conchshell when he obtained only nine votes of the necessary twelve.

The detail of four policemen, assigned by Police Superintendent Michael J. Crowley, kept open watchful eyes while the twenty-two councilors held secret conference prior to the meeting, its anti-coms adjoining the Council chamber.

City Messenger Edward J. Leary, mindful of the verbal outbursts a week ago when the stitching of President Keene occurred, asked for the police detail.

The officers were also instructed to bar cigarette smoking in the gallery to prevent fires.

It was understood before the meeting that out of the secret conference came a pledge by the majority of Democratic councilors to support Councilor Hoffmann for the presiding officer's chair. Four Democratic councilors at the last meeting voted for candidates other than Hoffmann.

The Republican members, who, however, are in the minority, were understood to be solidly behind Keene.

STON SWIMMING COPIED BY PRAYERS OF HIS MOTHER

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 17.—A little, old lady, gray-haired and weak from long illness, raised herself from her bed of pain here and stretched out her arms as though to reach across a continent, and with this gesture she breathed a prayer, a prayer that sped over long stretches of snow and ice, that topped the Rockies, that descended into sunshine and flowers, and finally came to rest in the turbulent waters that separate Catalina Island from the shores of California.

And a boy came to her aid, swim, and bring you back that $25,000.

The mother only looked at her boy, read what was written in his face, and reached toward the mother, reaching out from his hidden place her little hand, her all.

"Take it, my dear," she said simply, "I know you will win."

History was written there, but who demanded it in its favor? Catalina? The young man had been reasonably prosperous up to a few years ago when fire destroyed everything they owned in San Francisco. Catalina was a bad boy, while his mother worked in the kitchen. His mother was crippled in her leg for life in the fire and the operation has just undergone in a direct result of an injury to her spine suffered in the fire.

All through the long hours after her boy was struggling in the icy waters the mother's lips moved, and when the boy was brought to her she said simply: "My son, you were meant."

Thousands wait outside the hospital to see the boy, who is recovering from his ordeal. Hundreds are waiting to see the mother, who is still weak and half-blind, demanding to be taken home. Her mother, who is still weak and half-blind, demanding to be taken home.

W. U. Exonerated in Messenger Boy's Death by Train

The Western Union Telegraph Company was not responsible for the death of Daniel T. Conner, a fifteen-year-old messenger boy, killed by a train, according to a decision rendered today by the State Supreme Court.

The boy jumped from a train leaving Back Bay Station and was run over and killed. It was after falling to find a passerby to whom the telegram was addressed.

The court, presided by Judge E. A. Tamm, was not negligent as the boy was old enough to know it was dangerous to leap from a moving train.

The boy, bright-eyed and blue-eyed, testified for his father, Frank Sherman of Stoneham, who is suing Mrs. Ida Sherman of Chelsea for divorce on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Smoking Lounge for Women on Crack B. & M. Train

A women's lounge of gray and rose decorative scheme in which smoking is permitted is one of the outstanding features of the Boston & Maine Railroad's new observation-lounge-dining car, Concord, which made its debut on the road's crack express, the Minute train, today.

A sister car, the Lexington, will make its place in the service within a short time.

The new car is the latest idea in decoration and comfort. The observation lounge is finished in buff and cream, with wide windows and air-cushioned wicker chairs.

LIFE SAVED BY SNOW BANK

Only a snow bank saved Mrs. Alice Shaper, thirty-five years old, of Spring street, Boston, from being killed today.

The fall from the platform of a Boston-bound New Haven railroad passenger train as it was speeding past South Hill station in Cambridge, she escaped with a fractured left forearm and right hand, and cuts on her nose and one of her knees.

The woman was found in the snow beside the tracks by Station Master George F. Merrill. She was taken to City Hospital.

THUG SUSPECTS HELD BY COURT

Identified in at least two of many recent Boston holdups, four of eleven youths rounded up by police over the weekend were held in $100,000 bonds each on charges of robbery while armed by Judge William Sullivan in Municipal Court today.

They are Joseph Gasella, Thomas Lynch, Harold Smith and Alfred Michael. Abraham Klayman and William McElroy were each held in $500 on life and disorderly charges, while a seventh John Gasella, brother of Joseph, charged with robbery while armed, was bound over for a further hearing in District court.

Swearing four upon several South End lodging houses Saturday, a police squad led by Captain John Driscoll of East Dedham street station arrested the eleven youths.

Jazz Too Much For Boys and Girls of U. S., Says Dr. Mayo

Washington, Jan. 17 (A.P.)—Excesses of the "jazz age" are too great for the physical and mental well-being of American boys and girls of the present generation, Dr. H. H. Mayo, of Dr. Charles H. Mayo, famous surgeon, here attending a meeting of the American College of Surgeons. The mental development of the American people today, he said, is far in excess of their physical development.

Proper mating and adherence to the rules of good health is the only way to prevent physical degeneration.

WOOD OUSTS OF BANK BOARD

Manila, Jan. 17 (A.P.)—The members of the board of directors of the Philippine National Bank were ousted from office today by Governor-General Wood at a meeting of the stockholders. The ousted directors had been appointed by Senator Quezon, ex-officio members of the one time board of control, which General Wood assumed the duties of the board, and the question of which factor is the legal one is up to the courts.

Woman Keeps Up Fight Against Hub Charges

Continuing her fight to prevent Boston police inspectors from bringing her from Washington to answer charges here of defrauding investors in Florida land, Mrs. Myra C. Hill today filed in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals a petition for a writ of mandamus. She seeks to force Chief Justice McGray of the district Supreme Court to fix the amount of bond on her arrest from a ruling which surrendered her to the Boston authorities.

A writ of habeas corpus, obtained in the night of time, saved Mrs. Hill from being brought to Boston last week.

GIRL TELLS OF LIFE THREATS

Charged with robbing Robin Maine, Main street, Cambridge, Grover, and attempting to hold up a Somerville chain store, Frank Silva, seventeen, of Clark street, Cambridge, was held by police today while his sweetheart, Josephine Stout, maintained he was innocent.

Silva is charged with obtaining $10 and a check for $24 from Malmo in the chain store attempt in Sumner street, Somerville, the proprietor, George Sullivan, told the holdup man by pulling his own gun.

"Frank would never steal a nickel and I don't let," said Josephine Stout at her Fifth street home today. "He never showed me any signs that he had money. If he was in these holdups as the police say, then the police can blame 'Jello' and 'Tie Goods'."

"They had Frank frightened of them and he tried to hide from them. Jello threatened to kill me one night when I refused to tell him where Frank was."

INSULT HIT BY SCARLET FEVER CONTEMPT RULING ON INCREASE IN STATE

Washington, Jan. 17 (E.S.A.)—Within an hour after the Supreme Court had decided today that a Senate committee has power to compel testimony of witnesses under penalty of contempt, Senator James A. Reed (D.) of Missouri served notice in the Senate that he would shortly report several contempt cases for adjudication.

Reed referred to Thomas F. Cunningham of Philadelphia, Samuel Insull, the Illinois utilities magnate, and several others who refused to answer questions during the recent primary fund investigation by Reed's committee.

Others who have disputed the Senate's authority include Harry F. Daugherty, oil magnate, and the power of the Senate to subpoena witnesses in official investigations in the case of Maj. R. Daugherty, brother of former Attorney General, Harry M. Daugherty.

The decision was unanimous. Justice Stone did not participate, as he was Attorney-General during part of the time the incidents complained of were happening.

Senator Reed said the Senate is now at liberty to proceed against Mr. Daugherty, but others expressed the opinion that the Brookhart committee has gone out of existence, and that probably Daugherty's sole punishment will be a citation for contempt before the bar of the Senate.

The Court did not rule specifically upon the Senate's power to compel production of records, saying that in the present case that question was not involved.

The case arose out of the Senate's famous investigation into the Department of Justice while Harry Daugherty was its head.

The Supreme Court reversed the decision of the lower court, and held that it erred in granting a writ of habeas corpus.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON MANY ACTIVITIES OF SOCIETY

Boston Notables Going Abroad for the Rest of the Winter

MIGRATORY BOSTONIANS ARE ON THE WING! Practically every steamship, outbound, whether to North or South or over the ocean takes a complement of these armades to some favorite spot in the two Hemispheres. The steamship Paris off for French ports has in its happy traveler group that inveterate wanderer, Miss Catherine Amory Codman, who, with her relative, Mrs. Robert Codman, is on the first lap of a journey that extends to Northern Africa. They will do a motor tour, in the up-to-the-moment way for seeing that land of sunny sands and romantic natives, before crossing to travel in Spain and then go slowly Northward with Paris as their later destination. Miss Codman is of the "Dilatatory Domicile" designation in the Social Register, which means she's pleasantly free of social and domestic moorings and may go whither fancy dictates.

MISS MARGARET HALL of No. 42 The Fenway is also on the Paris and will cross to Northern Africa. She, however, is taking her own motor and chauffeur and will do much motoring on both continents. Dr. and Mrs. Charles Galloupe Mixter of Clyde street, Brookline, are passengers on the Paris; likewise Mr. Albert Y. Gowen and Mrs. Gowen, whose ultimate destination is likewise North Africa, which has become a popular spot. Mr. Gowen is recalled as that intrepid voyager who essayed a globe-circling journey two or three years ago in his "Speejaacks," that pioneered over several of the Seven Seas in an interesting cruise to make new travel history.

WHEN THREE SUCH POPULAR figures of their world, Mr. Laville in the son of Mrs. Let's, of Marlborough street, and Madame Villon's, of Marlborough street, and Stanley Woodward announce a "three-man" show, the picture-enthusiastic public is in for a most enjoyable treat. To the St. Botolph Club this afternoon, friends of the three young men are bidden to drink a cup of tea and to view some of their work. Smart set, notably his cousin, Mrs. Benjamin F. Rice Bassett, who also was Miss Gertrude Russell, of the Clarendon St. Club.

EREN DRAPER AND THE NEW MRS. DRAPER are on the Continent pursuing their leisurely honeymoon from one capital to another. Not so very long ago they were in Paris celebrating the Christmas and New Year's holidays, so is the way in the French city. Mr. Draper enjoys vast popularity in Iowa, and his hosts of friends are eager to greet the new Mrs. Draper, who is very attractive and basks from the far West. Mr. and Mrs. H. Bristow Draper, brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Draper, have been in New York for a week, putting up at the Ritz.

BENEATH A CERTAIN AMOUNT OF ANONYMITY (which to her friends of the smart world is sufficiently revealing), Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears, as Sarah C. Sears, is showing some of her paintings just now at the Gallery of the Guild of Boston Artists in Newbury street. Painting is one of Mrs. Sears' hobbies, really outstriking music for first place in her esteem and once in a while she has some of her works hung at the Gallery. The present showing of watercolors is especially delightful, a delicate rendering of flower studies, and showing a treatment extremely individual.

THE Titania Palace exhibition swings into its second week at Paine's with a briskness that augurs well for financial success. Waitresses recruited from society ranks rather in squads to serve a cup of tea and tasty small cakes. Miss Marion Union of Cambridge and Miss Nancy Vose of Charles River square were two on duty recently. To-day is under the direction of Mrs. Henry R. Shipley and her staff includes Mrs. Thane, Mrs. C. Baker, Miss Laura Taylor, Miss Beatrice Jones, Miss Catherine, and Misses. The Palace and its beauties need no recommending—having been sung for years by the customary enthusiasm of the list, and others are Mrs. Daniel Fiske Jones, Mrs. Samuel Hoar, Mrs. C. Ashley Hardy, Mrs. H. Hubbard, Mrs. Paul M. Hubbard and Mrs. Basil Knap. One of Miss Nichols' son Charles, the Phillips Brooks bed at the Backville Hospital, will benefit.

MISS HELOISE HERSEY ENJOYS a popularity among Boston's upper strata that is proverbial and perennial. So an announcement of her forthcoming talk at the Hotel Vendome on the morning of January 25 is hailed with the customary enthusiasm and evokes a sponsor list of distinction. Miss Genevieve Nichols, the list, and others are Mrs. Daniel Fiske Jones, Mrs. Samuel Hoar, Mrs. C. Ashley Hardy, Mrs. H. Hubbard, Mrs. Paul M. Hubbard and Mrs. Basil Knap. One of Miss Nichols' son Charles, the Phillips Brooks bed at the Backville Hospital, will benefit.

'BOOTLEG LOVE' NO JUST CAUSE FOR DIVORCE

New York, Jan. 17 (Universal)—Moral unfitness is no longer a just cause for seeking divorce, for it may imply no delinquency.

The Rev. Dr. Arthur Washfield of the West Side Unitarian Church here with this statement, then urged that "bootleg love" be eliminated by the "light of intelligence."

Dr. Slater preached on "The Marriage Muddle: Is Judge Lindsey Right?" Judge Ben B. Lindsey has evolved the theory of "compulsive marriage," to be dissolved by mutual agreement when children are not contemplated.

NOT AN ADVOCATE.
Dr. Slater said: "Do not regard me as an advocate of immorality. There is no immorality or morality outside of human beings which in any way affects human life. Immorality is the degradation, exploitation, thwarting, crippling, slandering or destruction of human beings by human beings."

"We marry, just as the roses bloom, because it is so to speak, life's inevitable determination to outwit death; always to provide for its own perpetuation. Every little love affair is thus an incident in the eternal and never-ending drama between life and death on Nature's simple stage."

STUDY 'SYMPTOMS'
"With our minds freed from notions of right or wrong, for nature knows no morality, we may consider passion dispassionately, and look upon the hot fire in our blood somewhat as we would watch the symptoms of a patient or the growth of a plant."

"We marry because nature will have human life continued. Perfect marriage are not made and cannot be made by artificial methods. Yet we can prepare a social situation in which human love may have their best chance to attain a beautiful fulfillment." Here the speaker referred to

DECORATING FRANKLIN STATUE

BIRTHDAY EXERCISES AT CITY HALL

Among those who took part in honoring the memory of Benjamin Franklin on the 220th anniversary of his birth were Daniel M. McKee of the Abraham Lincoln School and Everett McLeod of the Whittier School, left, in uniform; Mayor Nichols and Major F. F. O'Keefe, president of the Advertising Club.

Judge Lindsey's theory of "compulsive marriage," and said that the Colorado jurist holds that society is interested in the intimate relations of men and women only in so far as the protection of children and of the public health is concerned. Of the theory, Dr. Slater said:

"To become generally operative it would, however, require an extension of the teaching of birth control, which is also one of the needs of American life."

Declaring that true marriage should be a companionship and not a transfer of property or a physical monopoly of one person by the other, Dr. Slater quoted from Bertrand Russell, English philosopher, in the effect:

"The only solution for human problems is human intelligence. God will not tell us what to do. Intelligence is our only guide. Human life is a trial and error process, but there is no reason to reverse and preserving old errors."

"This is the first step in clearing

BOSTON HONORS BEN FRANKLIN ON BIRTHDAY

Benjamin Franklin, Boston-born and first American publisher to achieve international fame, was honored today on the 220th anniversary of his birth with exercises in front of City Hall, at the old Greenbury Ground and at a luncheon at the Advertising Club at Hotel Bellevue.

The celebration of the anniversary began with the assembly of Boston schoolboys in front of the statue at City Hall. Here, in the presence of Mayor Nichols, the boys laid a wreath of the fruit of the olive tree.

From City Hall and accompanied by members of the Boston Advertising Club, the boys went to the Old Greenbury Ground. There Mayor O'Keefe called upon New Englanders to honor the memory of the man who made the most of his young men and kept them here. He said in part:

"When I was in Philadelphia last year at the Sesqui-centennial Exposition and where we placed a wreath on the statue of Benjamin Franklin, it was forcibly presented to me that Philadelphia claimed Franklin as its own. The fact that Franklin was born on Milk street, Boston, and that all his ancestors were New Englanders, meant nothing to Philadelphia, for the people of that city held that Franklin had come to Philadelphia for opportunity, and that he had lived and succeeded there."

A lesson comes from Franklin's life for Boston and New England for the young men are being forced, as Franklin was forced, to seek other cities in search of success. It would be wise for New England to give her young men opportunity, for we need them."

At the Advertising Club luncheon speakers included Julian Magoon, editor of the New York Evening Post; Edward S. Friendly, business manager of the New York Sun; and William A. Thomson, director of advertising for the American Newspaper Publishers' Association.

'YES' AND 'NO' VERDICTS BY JURY IN ONE CASE

A jury in the Superior Court took of the case which had occupied the court for six days. Friday and after deliberating for eight hours agreed upon a verdict which they read.

Today when the clerk opened the envelope he found the foreman had signed two slips, one in favor of the plaintiffs and in either for the defendant.

Judge Whiting declared a mistrial.

The suits were of Genaro Laro, Michael Tanas, Antonio Di Laro, Antonio Sylvester and John Farrell against the Boston Elevated Railway Company for injuries sustained when a motor car and a street car collided on Columbia road.

SUE SEIBERLING FOR $2,093,729

Akron, O., Jan. 17 (U.S.N.S.)—The affairs of F. A. Seiberling became further involved today when the stockholders of the Rubber Company filed a new suit seeking to collect $2,093,729, which it claims Seiberling has owed the company since 1921.

Although Seiberling turned over to Dillon, Read and Company of New York one-half share of the A. C. and Y. Rubber Company and stock in Seiberling Athletic Field when he relinquished control of the company, the Goodyear Company declares that sale of this collateral will leave Seiberling owing $2,093,729, which it alleges he used for personal purposes while president of the company.

CHURCH HOME SOCIETY TO CARE FOR 200 CHILDREN

A decision to increase the number of children cared for by the Church Home Society to 200 was announced today at the annual meeting of the society at the home of Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer, No. 315 Dartmouth street.

Working on an enlarged program the society will extend a greeting hand to girls over 21, according to the treasurer's annual report. As secretary, Dr. Rev. Charles T. Dyer, D.D., the following officers were elected: Mrs. Charles R. Peck, first vice president; R. Hooper Hooper, second vice president; Ernest Lovings, Jr., treasurer; H. C. Bingham, clerk.

BULLET ROUTS HOLDUP MEN

Two shots were fired in a attempted holdup of the Mugu Garage on Washington street, where today, early today, when the sick manager, Wyman Hood, laid out way to the office safe and so he handle to flight empty handed.

The attempted holdup occurred shortly before 3 o'clock. Hood was alone, heard a noise outside the office and started to investigate. As he did a shot was fired and he lost crashed through the window of the partition separating the office from the garage.

Hood grabbed a revolver from the desk drawer. As he stepped into the office door the handkerchief was fired one shot at the fleeing men.

The police combed the district between Wellesley and Bunker but could find no trace of the holdup.

BABY, TRAPPED IN FIRE, DIES

Providence, Jan. 17—Trapped beneath her overturned doll carriage which she was apparently trying to save, two-and-one-half-year-old Alice H. Nadeau was suffocated during a fire that swept her home at No. 19 Perkins avenue, Cranston, today.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Nadeau, visiting a neighbor a short distance away, were alerted by the neighbor, they rushed to the burning house, but were unable to get through the smoke-filled hallway.

Rescue succeeded in breaking a window of the room in which the child had been sleeping. She was carried outside, where efforts to revive her failed. It is believed the child was awakened by smoke and in trying to escape with her doll.

Lips Lipsticks Have Touched Not Safe to Kiss, Says Doctor

Newark, Jan. 17 (A.P.)—Lips to which lipstick are touched shall never touch mine. Such a motto for youth might be suggested by a bulletin from Dr. Charles V. Custer, the city's chief health officer.

He says that every time a lipstick user wets her lips she takes a mass of microbes into her mouth; also that lipstick hand shakes and kisses are all in the same class; they should not be permitted.

Carriages, stumbled and fell. The fire arrived in a party of one house and caused considerable damage.

SCOPES' TRIAL REVEALED AS HUGE HOAX

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(Copyright, 1927, International News Service)

Washington, Jan. 17.—One of the greatest legal hoaxes in the history of American jurisprudence has come to an end with the decision of the Tennessee Supreme Court granting John Thomas Scopes a new trial in the world-famous anti-evolution case.

The court, while holding the anti-evolution law constitutional, recommended that the case against Scopes be not proceed because he left the state. The authorities have agreed to this.

The truth is that Scopes was convicted of a misdemeanor he never committed. The writer has the word of Scopes himself to this effect.

The youthful teacher who became the centre of a transnational conflict between fundamentalists and science, never violated Tennessee's anti-evolution law.

MISSED THE LESSON.
He didn't teach the children of Dayton, Tenn., any "theories that deny the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible."

"I'm convinced of a crime I never committed," said Scopes after his trial. "But my shirt are clear. You know, I pleaded 'not guilty.' That will make a great story," he was told.

"My God, no," Scopes shouted. "I don't want a word of it until the Supreme Court passes on my appeal. My lawyers would kill me if I got out now."

Scopes pointed out how his attorney—Charles Darrow, Dudley Field Malone and Arthur Garfield Hays—kept him off the witness stand and finally entered an agreement in open court for his conviction. He referred also to the plea of Darrow to the jury for a conviction.

COURT MAY HAVE KNOWN.
"We are more interested," Darrow said to the jury, "in overruling the law and we can't do that unless we get to a higher court, and to get to a higher court, we must have the defendant found guilty. Don't see how you can bring in a verdict of not guilty."

The Tennessee Supreme Court may have had an inkling of this story too, it appeared today, as its decision was the only one by which it could uphold the evolution law and yet get rid of the Scopes case.

Counsel for Scopes had guarded every other avenue to a technical reversal of Scopes' conviction by permitting the admission of their bill of exceptions, containing all the alleged trial errors.

BIRTHDAY SALE OF PROGRESS

Ahead at the Half-way Mark—

Despite

Three Stormy Days

Last year—during the Great Diamond Jubilee Sale — we had fair weather some part of every day during the entire month of January.

Against that wonderful weather — last week we had three stormy days, including a regular old-fashioned blizzard on Tuesday.

And yet — up to Saturday night our sales volume for the first two weeks of the sale was far ahead of the volume for the first two weeks of the Diamond Jubilee Sale of last year which produced, during the entire month, an increase of a million and a half dollars over the previous January.

There's only one reason — and that is V-a-l-u-e-s.

Our pledge remains unchanged that during every day of the two weeks remaining, the values offered will be as good as or better than those of the past two weeks — which means as good as or better than those of the Great Diamond Jubilee Sale of a year ago.

Seventy-six years of progress are back of that pledge of values.

Even on the day of the blizzard thousands braved the storm to take advantage of the Birthday Sale of Progress values.

You need come in only one day to be convinced that Jordan's is presenting values during the Birthday Sale of Progress that will make you want to come in every day — rain, snow, or shine.

FIGHT FOR NEW GOLF LINKS ON

Hearing on Bateman's Bill for Public Course at Fowl Meadows Started Today

By BILL GRIMES
REPRESENTATIVE T. R. Bateman of Winchester and his cohorts were heard today arguing for the appropriation of $75,000 for the construction of a public golf course at Fowl Meadows, Readville. Before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs at the State House this morning.

The outcome of this hearing will be a most important factor in the future of public golf in this section and will be watched with great interest by every golfer in Massachusetts. A favorable decision of the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs will send the bill to the Ways and Means Committee at a later date.

The Fowl Meadows site was of the estate of John H. Bateman, a well known of the Fowl Meadows, and is situated at Readville, adjoining the town of Milton and Canton, and has been known as the "Fowl Meadows" for many years. It is a 667-acre plot, on which it would be possible to construct a 36-hole course. In its present condition it is a useless tract of wasteland.

GOLFERS IN FAVOR

Representative Bateman, who today is meeting with the usual jolly pool of every golfer in Massachusetts. Along with William F. Garretts, Bateman has been conducting a campaign for more than a year and he feels that he has sufficient and undoubted proof to warrant the authorizing of a bill for $75,000 to establish a public course at Fowl Meadows.

M'CARTHY 10-8 CHOICE OVER HUFFMAN

There is no doubt that the fight between M'Carty and Huffman is the most interesting of the season. Huffman, the former heavyweight champion, is the favorite of the Boston crowd. He is a powerful, well-knuckled fighter, and his record is a record of success. M'Carty, on the other hand, is a more technical fighter, and his record is a record of defeat.

No one who has seen Huffman in action can doubt that he is a powerful fighter. He is a powerful, well-knuckled fighter, and his record is a record of success. M'Carty, on the other hand, is a more technical fighter, and his record is a record of defeat.

There should also be some sweet talking with Jack Huffman. Huffman is a powerful, well-knuckled fighter, and his record is a record of success. M'Carty, on the other hand, is a more technical fighter, and his record is a record of defeat.

Tigers on Top in Cage League

New York, Jan. 17 (AP)—A late winter week over the Eastern Intercollegiate Basketball League after a hectic two week campaign that brought Princeton to the top of the list. The Yale Blue Devils beat with three victories and no defeats and saw the Yale record of 24 straight wins.

Tan Ellis failed to win in the circuit since late in the 1924 season. Only two battles are scheduled for this week, one brings the Tiger to face in Hanover, N. H., to face Dartmouth, and the second one with Pennsylvania after two victories and one defeat. A win for the Green and for a tie with Princeton for first place. The Yale Blue Devils beat with three victories and no defeats and saw the Yale record of 24 straight wins.

Footballing it, with a few wins more into it in January. The well known North End team, the Boston Shamrocks, are now in the thick of the season. They are a powerful team, and their record is a record of success.

What our chemists call, "an almost perfect seal for tobacco condition"—a heavy soft-foil package with an extra outside wrapper of glassine....

TOBACCO MADE FOR PIPES AND CUT FOR PIPES
 -PACKED SENSIBLY AND ECONOMICALLY

- isn't that exactly what pipe smokers want?

AFTER all, what men want is good tobacco, first and foremost; better packing or lower price is always secondary. And good tobacco is precisely what Granger Rough Cut offers—quality Burley of the ripest, richest grade, specially made by "Wellman's Method," an old-time secret for sealing in the flavor. What's more, the "Rough Cut" is the one way pipe tobacco should be cut for cool smoking.

The lower price is welcome, of course—but it's what's inside that has made Granger the most talked-about new brand in all our experience.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Peter was larger than any boy in the crowd, but somehow you thought he was a little older, a retainer. Peter had a way of effacing himself modestly or replying in a softly modulated voice that made certain members of his set long to say it with black eyes.

"Hello, Pete," said Nelson Barr—"I think I've been taking Nolan Nolan driving in the crunt, and that also makes you walk home."

Peter smiled amiably. "That's an error," he said venly. "Nolan has never gone for a drive. I mean."

"Oh, for crying in your sleep," Pete he human. "Did you lose a joke?"

"Do you know any?" asked Pete. "I know a few. Nolan said if you are alive so is a mummy."

"When did you say that?"

"Just a few minutes ago," Eha said the loudist tone also Eha said you talk in a w— a second rate wheeler.

"I'm not a wheeler of your own voice, are you, Pete?"

"What else did Nora say?" insisted Peter.

"A lot of things. She said if you ever got mad she would give you a tram, or an earth worm or something. She thinks you are too stiff as Mama's boy. She said she thought you must shudder when the light is turned off in your room at night. And she said—"

"That's another!" roared Peter quietly. "If you were my sister I'd give you a thrashing you never forgot."

"You and who else?" scoffed Barrow contemptuously.

"You'd know who had done it to me. I never let it be said I was advised Peter. He started away.

"That's big talk from a little man. You're not a man, are you?"

"Can't fight with your own mother's consent!" said Peter.

"You're a weakling," he heard Barrow laugh.

He turned and his eyes studied Barrow carefully. "I mean just what I said. You're a weakling," he said.

"And my mother. If she said I was a weakling, I was."

 "I wish he'd snap out of it and

 Nora journeyed directly to Peter's home. A maid admitted her and she went into the library where she found Peter talking earnestly to some one.

"—I did," said Nora. "I was but I came to tell you I never said any of those horrible things. I—I think he likes me. I don't know. I don't like to fight you but he wants to fight you. Dick Brand that you fight with. He can't push me."
Peter's eyes suddenly sought his mother's. "Dick is big enough," he said. "He's a different kind of a fighter. I tell you I am and he tope me to the weight."
Grant hesitated. "Son," he said at last. "I suppose every man has to decide certain matters for himself. I guess Nora thinks you should fight."
"If I thought Peter would whip Dick Brand I'd be so proud!" the girl exclaimed.
Peter shot from the room.
Mrs. Brand moved over to a seat by the window. "How do you like my boy?" she asked pointedly.
"—I," said Nora. "I always like the gentle way he speaks and the manner in which he treats girls."

"That's true," said Mrs. Grant. "A wonderful man as kind and gentle to women. I must tell you a little something about my son. He was married to a girl named Bessie for two years. That was while they were living in the East. He had quarrel with his father. Have you ever heard how he earned his living?"

Nora shook her head.

"He went into an antique printing," admitted Mrs. Grant.

"Have you heard tell of Bettlingham?"

Nora gasped. She distinctly remembered having read items in the news having to do with one Bettlingham.

"I am not proud of this phase of Peter's career, my dear. His father was a very successful business man. He reads that if ever Peter uses his fists without my sanction he forfeits the entire estate over and some of my money as well as George's. That's why Peter came home to ask me

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE--BY HELEN ROWLAND

A young man recently stood up to court and swore that the fact that he was putting his sweet heart with one hand did not in the least interfere with his driving with the other.

How is that for SANG FROID? What a victor the modern lover has become! To be able to manage a driving license with one hand and a six-cylinder car in traffic with the other, without letting an eye or losing control of either!
